

OUR IMMIGRANT NEIGHBORS NEED US

Many immigrants and refugees have had their right to work taken away by the government.

At a recent Faith + Conviction Coalition meeting, members heard from Pastor Paul Aladin with United Hearts for Haiti and FM Volunteers for Ukraine. They shared stories of Haitians and Ukrainians in the FM community who have lost their legal status, despite coming to the US legally, and with it, their right to work in North Dakota.

These populations, and others, are guests in our country. Some were brought to the US through private sponsorships and supported by US families and community organizations.

In addition to losing their income, they've lost access to healthcare.

Members of these communities, and many of our immigrant neighbors, need our help. Many are unable to work or pay for medical expenses.

They are afraid to leave their homes, go to doctor's appointments, or English language class.

They aren't comfortable sending their children to school, visiting grocery stores, or visiting family.
